2 PAID PEER ADVISING POSITIONS AVAILABLE

We have two openings available for Biology Peer Advisors for the upcoming year. Training occurs during spring term.

If you enjoy working with people and desire to learn more about the biology major and other university science requirements then peer advising may be an exciting position for you. It is also a wonderful way to develop communication skills and to make a difference in the lives of students, staff, and faculty.

Most commonly, applicants are finishing the Honors Biology or General Biology sequence this year, and have Freshman or Sophomore academic status.

If you think you don’t know enough to be a Peer Advisor, have no fear! That’s what our spring term training is all about, when we teach you the ins-and-outs of Departmental and University advising. You may be eligible to work with us during IntroDUCKtion (during Summer Sessions and the Week of Welcome (WOW!), just prior to the first week of fall classes. During the academic year, we meet as a group every so often when there are important updates.

For training you may elect to earn one credit for BI 407 Seminar in Peer Advising. While BI 407 may be applied toward the 62 upper-division credits required to graduate from U of O, these courses can not be applied toward the 44 upper-division credits required for the Biology major. Spring training involves a group meeting once a week for one hour, and one hour of work per week, shadowing one of our current peer advisors. Biology Peer Advisors can be paid directly or supported by way of work study.

For further details, please call us at 346-4525. To apply please pick up an application in the Biology & General Science Advising Center, Room 65 Klamath Hall (KLA). Applications are due March 30th. We look forward to meeting you!
